

Menching

The Menching Model can help to create a coaching culture in your organisation based on a leading edge and proven framework.

The term 'Menching' is the combination of coaching and mentoring being strategically aligned.

We worked in association with Asset Skills to develop the Menching Model through a coaching and mentoring pilot project that initially supported talent management in four Housing Associations involved in the pilot.

The seven stage model is now available for your organisation.

There is increasing evidence that internal and team coaching is on the rise. Coaching accelerates the development of talent and enables them to release their potential - but are there enough people qualified to be effective coaches?

For more details:

For further information, please contact:

Mary Sisson on 01283 703828 or email:
mary.sisson@awberymanagement.co.uk